4. Monona Terrace Community and Convention Center 1997

Madison

Wright's first design for Monona Terrace was created in 1938. A labor of love, yet surrounded by controversy, Wright spent 21 years, 63,000 hours of staff time, drew some 4,000 sketches and eight drafts on the project. The project was completed in 1997, almost 40 years after his death. The structure bridges the space between the lake and the State Capitol, and offers a gift shop, rooftop gardens, and an outdoor café.

This series of houses resulted from Wright's desire to design appealing housing for every American. The Model B1 is an efficient, compact house with original built-ins, and trademark Wright style.

6. Annunciation Greek Orthodox Church 1955-61

Milwaukee

This was one of Wright's last major commissions and was completed two years after his death. Wright's circular design incorporates two traditional Greek Orthodox elements: Wright fuses two shallow domes set upon a cross-shaped cradle. The 106-foot blue ceiling dome crowns the church like the dome of heaven. The floor plan mimics the Greek Orthodox cross, inscribed within a circle. This motif is repeated throughout in decorative features, including the gold-anodized aluminum icon screen, and the gates to the exterior sunken gardens.
